(2) Type GR. Gasoline resistant. While not impervious to petroleum products, this type of foam performs well in cases of splash or spills. In such instances, evaporation can occur before the attack on the foam becomes apparent.

(3) Type REG. This is the most common type of expandable polystyrene. It is neither gasoline resistant nor fire retardant. Use of type SE expandable polystyrene is recommended because of added safety of having fire retardant flotation.

CONSTRUCTION OF PRIVATE FLOATING DOCKS

CONSTRUCTION DETAILS. In construction, all connections shall be secured with metal straps, or gussets to resist movement that would tend to dismantle the structure. All columns and walls shall be adequately braced to resist windloads of at least 25 pounds per square foot. Roofs shall be securely fastened to the superstructure to resist wind uplift. Wood material, if used, will require preservative treatment.

a. Wood Construction:

(1) Floor joists and flotation frames shall be not less than 2" x 6" and stringers shall not exceed 24" center-to-center on 1" material such as plywood.

(2) Framing for wood columns shall be not less than 4" x 4" and/or double 2" x 4" spaced not more than 6' - 0" center-to-center or No. 2" x 4" allowed as columns, spaced not more than 2' - 0" center-to-center. Subject to the stability of the roof structure including adequate bracing, the 4" x 4" vertical supports may be spaced up to 8' - 0" on centers. Columns will in every case be spaced symmetrically, on each side of walkways equal to their width. Flooring or decking will be 2" x 6" or larger or 3/4" plywood on 1" No. 1 grade lumber on 2" x 4" centers and spaced in such a manner to allow expansion. Three-quarter inch (3/4") marine plywood will be considered as a suitable alternate.

b. Roofs (Superstructure):

(1) Roofs may be gabled or monosloped.

(2) Wood roof joists or rafters shall be not less than 2" x 6" and spaced not more than 4' - 0" center-to-center. No purlines are allowed on open structures.

(3) Wood roofs must consist of 1" material or 1/2" plywood sheathing covered with 30-pound asphalt roll roofing or asphalt shingles. (When asphalt shingles are used the roof slope must be 4 on 12 or steeper.)

(4) Metal roof joists or rafters shall be not less than 1-1/4" ID standard pipe or structural aluminum tubing, either round, square or rectangular and spaced not more than 2' - 0" center-to-center. Consideration will be given to approving 4' - 0" spacing where sufficient vertical supports and bracings are provided.
